Texas and Texans

Texas is one of the largest states in the United States. As a result, everything appears to be big. For example, there are big food outlets, shopping centers, and houses in Texas as compared to others states. In other states, the price of a small house is the same to that of a mansion in Texas. In addition, Texas' economy is strong enough to suit all it citizens. Secondly, Texas has a unique and weird weather. For example, in two consecutive days, the weather may vary from cold and snowy, to 100 F degrees. There are also money resources, oil, and jobs which make Texans proud of their state.

On the other hand, Texans uphold the following qualities. First, they are talented in cooking Mexican food and eating juicy steak. A Texan can also wear his or her boots with either shorts, skirt, jean, pajama or a bathing suit. Other people say that Texans are proud of their bumper sticker hence they do not mess with them.

I am not a native Texan though my birth certificate says I am. My husband also says that I seem to have been born in Texas, because my habits, history, and childhood resemble those of Texans. The fact is that I was born in Mexico but raised in Texas.
